Statement of Historical and Architectural Significance:

1905 Filbert is a large American Foursquare house on a corner lot. Corner lots in Forest Grove commonly have large homes on them, as original owners usually owned an entire lot, which is 1/4 of a block in Forest Grove. They would usually subdivide later.

This home is in fair condition, and has been altered several times. Some windows have been replaced, and a variety of porches have been added and removed.

Statement of Historical and Architectural Significance:

This small vernacular residence is typical of inexpensive residences built in difficult economic times. It lacks a basement or finished 2nd story — both shortcuts to save money. As a result, many of these houses are so small that they get added on to over the years. This house has been altered as well. Alterations include the addition of vinyl siding and the attachment of a garage built in a similar style on the N elevation.

Statement of Historical and Architectural Significance:

2022 Filbert is a simple 1920's vernacular house that has been added on to significantly. A large rear addition dwarfs the original roofline. Windows are mostly originals, but the scale of the house has been significantly affected
